One of Galton's earliest synchronous weather maps, probably for Sept. 3, 1861, showing the use of his circular stamps to indicate direction of wind and nature of barometric change.