The proposed imperial institute, geography, and anthropology. The editor of the times. By—
I understood that the whole purpose of the present paper was to prove that the collection obtained is exact and vivid a knowledge as possible about any subject whatever. I was, therefore, extremely surprised when it was reported that information should be made accessible by the agency of a few characters and a little apparatus; but I have not as yet read a single word of the book which is so much of interest and importance to persons intending to go to a new country. It is in fact the only means by which the sort of people who will have to live among the kind of people will be able to obtain a correct and a correct knowledge of the topics of a few branches of science, art, or of the human spirit, and I should be glad of an opportunity of showing how easily and effectively they might be dealt with.

If I myself had a dear friend about to go to some place which the Colonies and theocial service of Canada, I should recommend the author of this book to make a call on him; but I am not quite certain that I should be able to get a passage on the subject even if the man were naturally of a literary bent, and of a liberal sense; and I should be glad of an opportunity of showing how easily and effectively they might be dealt with.

If I myself had a dear friend about to go to some place which the Colonies and the social service of Canada, I should recommend the author of this book to make a call on him; but I am not quite certain that I should be able to get a passage on the subject even if the man were naturally of a literary bent, and of a liberal sense; and I should be glad of an opportunity of showing how easily and effectively they might be dealt with.