

ANTHROPOLOGICAL MISCELLANEA.

PARSEE BURIAL in INDIA.

The following account of a Parsee burial in India was given me by an eye witness, and I think may prove of interest to members of the Institute :—

A Parsee having died at a spot too far removed from any "Tower of Silence" to allow of his being conveyed to one, a grave was dug for him close to the sea shore. In this the body was laid at full length in ordinary apparel. Then two men, presumably the nearest relatives of the deceased, tied together by the hands, advanced towards the open grave, one walking to the right of it and the other to the left, till they arrived at the centre of the grave. Then a man advanced and with a knife severed the cord which bound the two. After this, a dog was brought and held over the grave, being made to look at the corpse, and this apparently concluded the ceremony.

A. W. BUCKLAND.

TABLES of OBSERVATIONS.

By FRANCIS GALTON, F.R.S.

The following observations are printed for the use of those who desire to investigate the relations of the various measurements of the same individuals, whether among themselves or in connection with birthplace, occupation, &c. The observations were made at the International Exhibition in 1884, with the same instruments, the same methods, and mostly by the same operator. They refer to male adults of the ages 23-26 and have been tabulated for me by Mr. J. H. Young, of the General Register Office, from the original documents. There were 518 available returns altogether, but I thought it better to limit the publication to the round number of 400 and to take the opportunity thereby afforded of weeding out all foreigners, or persons of abnormal antecedents or occupation, so that the remainder should be as homogeneous a group as circumstances admitted. I may add that the data used in my recent memoir on Correlation (Proc. Royal Soc., December, 1888) were entirely different to these. Consequently the present publication will afford useful material for checking the results arrived at in that memoir.

I did not care to enlarge the table by including other measurements that had been made at the same time. As much is printed as the page can conveniently hold, and the omitted measurements seem to be of secondary importance from the present point of view.
